

The location of the church is TF 80479 35230 \pm 7 m (measured at the centre of the east wall).

The visible building material is rough flint and lime mortar. The area is scattered with decayed mortar and fragments of flint.

The walls are nowhere higher than 30 cm, and in most places they are at ground level.

The floor of the main body of the church is below ground level, perhaps as a result of C18–19 excavations.

Scraps of sheet lead were found with a metal detector.
